

UGANDA

The “Community Outreach” as a model to treat women in the slum areas of Kampala.
Improvement strategies for prevention and clinical management of HIV, TB and Malaria.

Responsabile	Prof. Marco Caselli Full professor fo Sociology of Cooperation Director of CIS
Ente capofila	Università Cattolica del Sacro Cuore
Enti finanziatori	Italian Agency for Development Cooperation
Località	Kampala, Uganda
Data di avvio	March 2020
Durata	24 months
Ambito prevalente di intervento	Health, training
Destinatari diretti	Women at Kireka and Kisenyi communities, Kampala
Destinatari indiretti	Population of Kireka and Kisenyi communities, Kampala
Obiettivo generale	Contribute to the fight against the spread of sexually transmitted diseases, TB and malaria, in Uganda.
Obiettivo specifico	Promote prevention and treatment pathways for sexually transmitted diseases, TB and malaria among the women of the communities of Kireka and Kisenyi, in Uganda.
Risultati attesi	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The population’s awareness of the Kireka and Kisenyi communities is increasing about their salutation and preventive measures and greater willingness to take care of them. 2. Increased number of women with sexually transmitted diseases, TB and malaria who receive adequate care. 3. Maintenance in care through follow-up and periodic visits of more than 50% of women enrolled through the Community Outreach.
Partner locale	Benedict Medical Centre Ltd
Altri partner	Fondazione Italia Uganda Onlus